and the animals that call this region home. Enjoy the stunning water views of Totem Bight State Park, home to an Alaska Native clan house and a collection of 14 towering Tlingit and Haida hand-carved, cedar totem poles. Marvel with us at the panoramic, mountainous seascape surrounding Guard Island, while you photograph the first lighthouse to be built in Alaska, completed in 1904 and still in operation today. Sip a hot chocolate and keep on the lookout for harbor seals, moon jellyfish, pigeon guillemots, deer, blue heron, whales, and other wildlife. A complimentary snack of local Alaskan hor d'oeuvres, including our signature smoked salmon dip, will be served while underway.

NOTES

DETAILS

In the early 1900s, Alaska's timber industry was booming. Rugged frontier lumberjacks toiled at work each day in one of North America's most grueling environments to harvest timber for our growing nation.

On this educational excursion you will:

- Hear the stories about how from remote logging camps up and down the coast of southeast Alaska, you could hear the pounding of the axe, the singing of the crosscut saw, and the cry of "Timber!"
- Learn hardy lumberjacks would gather each summer in the sawmill town of Ketchikan to compete against rival logging camps.
- Discover these fit, rugged men fought hard to take home the bragging rights of becoming the "Bull of the Woods."
- See that today these legends live on at the "Great Alaskan Lumberjack Show."

NOTES

The time frame on this tour gives you the opportunity to either take another tour or enjoy your day in Ketchikan.
